

Students Turn Out En Masse to Form New Record — 601 Pints

— Charles Kinghorn

Denny Vaughn, popular television star, appeared at the Blood Drive Clinic yesterday afternoon. He sang and played the piano as 601 students and professors donated enough blood to surpass the goal set by the Blood Drive Committee by one pint.

Smith, Morrison Slated to Talk on WUS Experiences

WUS Scholars Stu Smith and Bob Morrison will speak to-night on their experiences in the West Indies last summer. Smith and Morrison spent two months in the Caribbean as delegates to the 10th WUS International Seminar. Some 32 Canadian students, from 23 Canadian universities, attended the seminar, along with an equal number from the University College of the West Indies in Kingston, Jamaica, where the seminar was held. The university, only 12 years old, is regarded as the intellectual focal point of the federation.

Theme of the seminar was "The West Indies in Transition: Implications of Political Independence". The topic was studied from such varied points of view as: culture, education, politics, economics, and health and welfare.

Smith, a second-year medical student, chose the health and welfare aspect as his specialty. Morrison, a final year student in engineering physics, concentrated on the cultural heritage of the islands.

The students chose a propitious time to visit the young federation which came into being less than two years ago. Formed from ten scattered British territories in the Caribbean, the federation faces many of the problems common to underdeveloped countries, and a few unique ones of its own.

A crucial election campaign was in progress during their sojourn in Jamaica, and the Canadian students attended a number of colourful street corner rallies. There is no television in Jamaica.

They also saw many other aspects of Jamaican life such as the sugar industries and the bauxite mines, recent tourist developments, and some of agricultural planning schemes, as well as sampling the standard tourist pleasures such as rum, calypso, and white sand beaches.

On leaving Jamaica, the group was divided into three study tours, which travelled separately through the various islands. Smith visited St. Kitts and Grenada, while Morrison went to British Honduras and Antigua.

The group reconvened in Trinidad for a final week, where their sessions were addressed by Sir Grantley Adams, the federal Prime Minister, and by Dr. Eric Williams, the fiery Premier of Trinidad.

Throughout their trip, Smith and Morrison told the Daily, they were received with open arms by the West Indians they met. Besides the natural friendliness of the people, they said, was the fact that they were part of a Canadian delegation. Canada is held in very high esteem by the West Indies, both as a model federation and as a senior Commonwealth member.

The talk will be held in the Walter M. Stewart Room at 8 p.m. this evening. It should be of particular interest to those who intend to apply for next year's seminar, which is being held in Israel.

MCWA Opens its Doors

For the first time, all seminars of the McGill Conference on World Affairs will be open to the public, and delegates from McGill's national clubs will be invited to take part in the discussions.

About 100 students from Canadian and American Universities will gather for four days of round-table discussions and panel debates on the subject "Afro-Asia: The Problems of Underdeveloped Countries."

The conference will continue from Nov. 17 to Nov. 20. During this brief period, the delegates are to hear the views of five well-

Six hundred and one pints of blood; that's the record number that was collected at yesterday's clinic. The previously unsurpassed goal of 500 pints was reached shortly after 5 o'clock, and then the race was on to reach the new and hitherto unheard of goal of 600 pints before the official closing time of 8 o'clock in the evening.

Shortly before that time, when it was realized that the total collected thus far was shy of the magic 600 mark by just a few pints, a last minute effort was made by the Blood Drive committee to reach it. Several members of the committee ran to the library and persuaded a number of students to come to the clinic. Simultaneously, the German Club, which was meeting in the Union at the time, willingly broke up its scheduled meeting and turned out in force to contribute.

Norman May, chairman of the clinic, stressed that this was by no means the climax of the drive. He expressed the hope that even higher totals could be achieved in the remaining two days.

REVISED OBJECTIVE

The clinic will remain open today and tomorrow until 6 in the evening instead of 5 o'clock as originally scheduled, in an attempt by the drive to surpass yesterday's totals. It was announced by the chairman yesterday evening that following a prolonged meeting with representatives of the University of Montreal Blood Drive, the new objective which McGill students now have to meet in order to win the Birks Trophy is 2950 pints.

A committee Spokesman, stated that for the first time in the trophy's history, there is a reasonably good chance that McGill would meet that objective and win the trophy; but he reiterated that that depended entirely on an excellent turnout at the clinic by all those students who have not as yet contributed.

GUEST APPEARANCE

Yesterday's clinic was highlighted by the guest appearance of Denny Vaughn, the well-known television and night club performer. Today's clinic will be honoured with a visit by Principal and Vice-Chancellor F. Cyril James. Dr. James will be making his visit at 11:30 am this morning. At 1 pm Alan King, the television comedian now appearing at the El Morocco, will visit the clinic; shortly after his visit, a well-known member of the Montreal Alouettes football club will be arriving to present some prizes to the Lucky Minutes donors.

COMPETITION RESULTS

In the various competitions, the race for Bloody Mary is being led by Commerce with a 40.2% turnout, followed by Engineering with 38.9% and Arts and Science with 30.9% net turnouts. The Bloody Boris competition sees Medicine in the lead with 37.3%, followed by P & OT with 37.0% and Divinity with 29.0%.

Among the men's fraternities, KRT, Lambda Chi Alpha and Sigma Alpha Mu have had 100% turnouts; in the women's fraternities, AG had 100% and AOP has 90.0%. Among the clubs and societies, the Psychology Club has a 73.0% turnout, followed by the Judo Club with 59.2% and the Choral Society with 47.8%. The competition between the national clubs is being led by the French Society, with a 42.1% turnout.

Investigate Toronto Frats

TORONTO (CUP) — Fraternities on the University of Toronto campus are being investigated by CAPUT, U. of T.'s supreme disciplinary body, with a view to definite action on arbitrary discrimination. The CAPUT issued a statement unanimously endorsing President Claude T. Bissell's declaration that any action of discrimination based upon race, religion or colour strikes at the very heart of the life of the University of Toronto.

President Bissell made this declaration after it had been made public that a Negro coed, Bobbi Arrington, was refused admission in a sorority because of her colour. After this certain other similar cases were brought to light.

He stated that although the fraternities and sororities were technically private clubs, they are made up of university undergraduates and the university is concerned with what they do. "The university will not remain aloof because of its technical position of being apart from sororities and fraternities."

CAPUT completely backed Dr. Bissell's stand.

Oxonians Emancipate Distaffers

The Emancipation of Women has taken one more step forward. A new ruling at Oxford University has given the women's colleges equal standing with the men's.

Sir Maurice Brown, a bachelor and former vice-chancellor and proctor, made the proposal. He hoped that his suggestion would culminate the many changes in which the "most remarkable work" done by the women's colleges was recognized by the University.

As a result of the new ruling, women tutors now are able to become vice-chancellors and proctors. Members of these colleges will also be allowed to sit on all organizations concerned with day-to-day affairs, enabling them to gain experience in university business.

Sir Maurice commended the high standards, academic successes and the "high degree of presentability of their charges" of the five colleges for women.

DISTINGUISHED SPEAKERS

The Rt. Hon. Lester B. Pearson, Opposition Leader of Parliament, former Minister of External Affairs and Nobel Prize winner will address the group on the first evening, Tuesday, Nov. 17 in Redpath Hall.

On Wednesday night, Andrew Cordier, Assistant Secretary General of United Nations and J. N. Sahni, an Indian Cabinet Minister, will engage in a panel discussion with other dignitaries, in Redpath Hall.

Dr. Arthur Smithies, an expert on foreign aid, will lecture in Moyse Hall on Thursday night.

The closing banquet on Friday at noon will be addressed by Dr. Leslie Monroe.

OPEN TO PUBLIC

Because of the complaints of students, in the past, all the coming seminars will be held in large halls and student spectators are invited to witness all phases of the Conference.

All the national clubs on the campus are asked to send delegates to the discussions. Each of these representatives must prepare a paper on a related topic.

Oh! Canada?

You may have noticed that our intercollegiate debaters look rather gloomy these days. There is a good reason, and we think you ought to know about it.

The crisis was caused by an American publication called "The National Debate Handbook". For the last number of years, a gentleman by the name of Weston Walch has been producing annual versions of this distinguished literary work. It is designed to present the American tournament debater with a complete analysis of the The National Debate topic, and with an exhaustive compendium of relevant evidence. It has been regarded reverently as the intercollegiate debaters' "bible".

Now this year's topic, it seems, deals with the problem of judicial review. Mr. Walch has seen fit to include in his discussion of the topic a brief background of the Canadian constitution. We all appreciate the fact that Canada is finally being given attention by our southern neighbors. We have always felt that they have so much to learn from us. And it is only because we are thankful for his interest that we wish to point out a few of the inaccuracies which Mr. Walch has unfortunately inserted. Besides we owe it to our debaters.

Mr. Walch says that in 1867 "Quebec, Ontario and the Maritime colonies (except Newfoundland)" entered Confederation. This statement is inaccurate on two counts. Firstly, at the time of Confederation there were no such entities as Quebec and Ontario. These were Lower and Upper Canada respectively. Secondly, not all the Maritimes, even excepting Newfoundland, entered Confederation. Prince Edward Island, which had participated in the Charlottetown and Quebec conferences, decided not to enter at that time.

Mr. Walch also informs us that Quebec is "the most populous province", the Privy Council is "a longstanding British court" and that the Canadian Constitution (BNA Act) can be amended only by judicial review or by British Statute.

Well, we are quite prepared to acknowledge that Canada's constitutional position, especially with regard to amendment, lends itself to misunderstanding. We do, none the less, feel that a man of Mr. Walch's stature should be more careful. His errors, which may appear to be quite insignificant, have shattered the sense of security enjoyed by intercollegiate debaters who rely on his book.

Hence their gloom.

Only Two For the Money?

Whenever the Students' Executive Council allocates a sizeable sum of money for a few representatives to attend a far-off conference, some neophyte member invariably expresses vehement objection. He argues that the Students' Society has no right to appropriate such large amounts for the sake of one or two students.

If these trips were not designed to benefit more than the individual concerned, we would be forced to agree. Fortunately, this is not so.

Firstly, sending a competent delegation to a conference enhances the reputation of this university, especially of her student body. It also helps us to propagate our views through such important bodies as NFCUS, SCNA and SCUSA. It gives us new insights into our problems at McGill. We have gleaned many valuable ideas, for example, from the annual conference on college unions. But perhaps most important, some of the delegations which we send out gain valuable experiences during their trip to "the outside world". The supreme example of the benefits we can derive along these lines is the WUS international student study-conference held annually in different countries of the world.

Last summer the WUS conference was held in the West Indies Federation. The two McGill representatives have returned to Montreal with many new and interesting ideas stimulated and developed during their WUS tour. They have expressed their willingness to share with us these valuable experiences.

We owe it to ourselves and to them to participate in the informative programme which the WUS Committee has arranged for us. This programme begins tonight with a talk by the delegates.

Those who will not attend have only themselves to blame if the WUS trip, expensive as it was, benefits only the two students who were fortunate enough to go.

Letters to the Editor

It's Not Too Nice To Show Your Vices

Sir,

I have the inestimable privilege to be Exchanged Student at your glorious university (McGill). I approve many things. I find your policy of race segregation totally in with the laws of Nature and of Allah (God). At the end of last week I partook of a Caste Party, and I was relieved to note that, in spite of the rumours I had heard back in my country concerning your new Democratic attitudes, which had led me to fear the worst, there was distinction of classes at the highest level. Very good.

But one thing has put me up my back. It is Alcohol of which I prate. Do you not realize, Honourable Sirs, that the consumption of spiritual liquors has been expressly defended by Allah? Have you no reverence for the laws laid down by the Powers That Be? Are you blind to the effects that the demon drink has on the Body Beautiful?

I have observed that there is a Campaign in progress, and that your Red Cross cries for our blood. We are all encouraged to give of our plenty, that the unfortunates with less blood than we may benefit. Naturally, I have no objection to donate my blood, which is pure. But I would view with concern the possible necessity of my receiving blood from another. I do not so much as mention the questions of caste or creed; it is alcohol of which I cry. Would you be happy to receive into your veins the sanguinary overflow of one who has partaken freely of liquors, whose corpuscles are enfeebled by intoxicants, whose lymph is adulterated with drink? Never, I say.

At your military Parade and Marching Band Show last Saturday at the Molson Stadium, I was shocked to the uttermost depths of my being to note that liquors of various brands were being imbibed in full public gaze. I ask you, Honourable Sirs, would our kind benefactor, who has given his name to our stadium, approve of this? And what horrified me the most was the blatancy of the drinking. No attempt was made to conceal it, as it would be in my country. And at the social functions afterwards (Viz. the Gaste Party above-mentioned), again I found indulgence, both by men, and also by members of your Weaker Sex, to open view.

Let me exhort you, Honourable Sirs and Fellow Students, no longer to ignore the laws laid down by Divine Providence. And if I may have the boldness to suggest a motto or slogan to follow, it will be this: Hide your Vices; Drink in Secret.

Suonzehc Edereibal

Frats Must Urge Learning Before Socializing

Sir:

Recently the Daily carried some remarks concerning the relationship between the individual and the fraternity. I would like to submit my opinion on this matter.

I think that the role of the fraternity is to give fellowship. I, living in an university residence, am a member of an unofficial fraternity. However, the student who cannot, for one reason or another, live in residence, needs a fraternity to provide him with a social and intellectual life — a respite from lectures, reading, and laboratory work. However, I think that fraternities in some cases do not fulfil this function. One may seek in their social life merely an escape from studying and/or discussion. If all do this, the fraternity degenerates into a mere pleasure house — a gross abuse of a good idea.

Therefore, all fraternities should, while maintaining an active social life, insure that their intellectual life comes first, or be banned by SEC — a step which I do not favour at all, unless absolutely necessary.

Of course, every student should be allowed to join a fraternity, unless his personal conduct renders him socially unacceptable.

Might I add in closing that I think we university students are too active socially and too lazy intellectually. "Cursed is he who comes to university to indulge himself; for he deserves to be flunked."

Assumption To Have New Student Centre

(Special to the Daily)

Assumption University of Windsor will soon start building a $1,400,000 student centre, it was announced Monday. Construction which will start next February is slated to be completed December of next year.

CUS Seeks Salesmen For Bonds

The Commerce Undergraduate Society is encouraging students in the Faculty to help sell the new issue of Canada Savings Bonds.

Volunteers will be taught the general sales technique and the nature and purpose of government financing in Canada. The new bonds will have an all-time high interest rate of 4.98% and are fully redeemable at 100% of their face value.

Those interested should call Stan Smith at VI. 2-6904.

This release coincided with the announcement that enrolment at the university had reached an all-time high of 1,000 students last week. The registration of Angelo J. Onegi of Arva, Uganda, the 1,000th student to register, marks a milestone in the life of Assumption, which in less than five years has almost tripled its enrolment.

Announcing plans for the student centre, John E. Thompson, director of development for Assumption University said "We hope to call for tenders on the building early in 1960 and start construction by February."

The building is to contain a cafeteria and snack bar, a lounge, offices of the Student Administrative Council, a music appreciation room, book store, faculty lounge, and alumni offices.

Also planned for next year is a science centre, to be opened for lectures in 1960.

Deciding Weekend Coming; Wydareny In Scoring Lead

by PHIL SINGER

The most important Intercollegiate League football game of the year is on tap for this weekend. The second place University of Toronto Blues will play host to the league leading University of Western Ontario Mustangs in a contest that will probably decide the league champions. At present the Mustangs are 2 points ahead of the Blues. A win for Toronto would deadlock the two squads. Each has one more game to play after this one and both will be favoured to win their remaining game.

In the event that they will close out the season tied, the team that has scored the most points during the schedule will be declared the winner and will represent the East in the Varsity Bowl at Toronto on November 14 against the University of British Columbia Thunderbirds. The Thunderbirds have already won the Western championship.

In their first meeting this season, the Mustangs clipped the defending champions 16-3 at London. Since that game, Toronto has not been doing as well as expected, even though they have won all their games. They have not been scoring many points and their offense is lacking what is needed to beat the Mustangs. But with performers such as Nick Sopinka, Bobby Dann and Pete Potter, the Blues cannot be counted out. Frank Cosentino will be opposing Spinoka in the quarterback slot and both will count heavily on the pass to win the ball game.

SCORING

Western's John Wydareny collected a touchdown against the Redmen last weekend and has taken the scoring lead over teammate Bill Mitchell, who went scoreless for the first time this season. Wydareny now has a total of 18 points and Mitchell is only one behind him. Tied for third spot are Bobby Dann of Toronto and Mike Wicklum of the Gaels, each with 12 points. McGill's Joe Irvin, Pete Potter of the Blues, and Terry Porter of Queen's follow with 11, 9, and 8 points respectively.

Besides the Western at Toronto clash, the Redmen will travel to Queen's this weekend for a game with the Gaels. Queen's held Toronto to one TD in each of their last two games and will be hard to beat. They edged McGill 6-0 in an exhibition this year and won 16-12 in league competition. However since then the Redmen have been going much better and should put up a good fight. A large McGill contingent is expected to travel the 180 miles for the game.

Intramural Highlights

by ED BIERBRIER

Playoffs began this week with twelve teams qualifying for the senior championship and four teams in the junior league. The winner in each league will not meet but rather each division will have their own champions.

JUNIOR DIVISION

We did not report on the junior playoff schedule as the last game between the Mountain Men and the Jets' score had not arrived on time for publication. In that game the Jets played to a 6-6 draw against the Mountain Men but failed to make the playoffs as the top two teams are only qualified. The standings at the end of the season are as follows:

FINAL STANDINGS

Section 1					Section 11
	W	L	T	Pts		W	L	T	Pts
Mountain Men (Eng)	2	0	1	5	Blues (Eng)	2	0	1	5
Whites (Eng)	2	1	0	4	Lions (A & S)	2	1	1	4
Jets (A & S)	1	1	1	3	Greens (Eng)	1	1	1	3

The Mountain Men faced the Lions and the Blues met the Whites in the semi-finals. The Mountaineers defeated the Lions 11-5. Lazarus got the Lions major while Bell and Kachanoff scored the majors for the Mountain Men. Lavers picked up the extra point. Meanwhile the Whites were whipped by the Blues 22-6. For the Blues it was Peterson, Johansson and Hume (2) who had touchdowns. Johansson also had two single points. Gross was the Whites' scorer and Lipfield got the convert.

CHAMPIONSHIP DECIDED TODAY

As a result the Blues will take on the Mountain Men today to decide the junior league champions. Both teams have three wins and a tie to their credit. However the Blues are better defensively having a 45-8 for and against record. The offensive Mountain Men boast a 50-16 for-against record.

SENIOR PLAYOFFS

With the final standings appearing last week the playoffs began and twelve teams were set to go all the way. In order to run an elimination contest to decide the winner, two halves were created to the playoff set up. In the first half the Moguls and the Shysters were each advanced in to the quarter finals via a bye. The Raiders dropped a 11-10 verdict to the Red Wings. Dutton and Bishop got the TD's for the Raiders while Bloomfield got both Wing TD's. Melchowsky's convert proved to be the difference. Upon facing the Moguls, Melchowsky carried the pigskin over the goal line in a losing effort as they were downed 7-5. Wright countered the lone Mogul major and Axelrod and Wright also added single points. This win put the Moguls in the semi-finals.

In the other first half game, Slipsticks edged out Med. III by a 6-5 score. Swales for Med and Gratton for the Slipsticks hit paydirt. Plowman's convert won the game and sent them on to handle the Shysters of Law. This was no match for the Law men as they crushed the Slipsticks 34-0. They have to lose a game or be scored upon, carrying an 83-0 for-against record. Now the duel is between Moguls and the Shysters today as to who enters the finals to be played on Monday on the Lower Campus. In the Shyster game, five-pointers went to Mike McLaren, George Rosenberg (2), Roy Heenan and Murray Greenwood (2). Ferrabee Levy and Greenwood (2) were in the end zone for converts.

TURTLES SHOOT FOR SECOND

The second half witnessed last years champs, Turtles and Med "2A" receive byes into the quarter finals. Dents and Skyeck were nipped by the Turkeys 10-6. Johnson and Maule had a touchdown and a convert respectively for Dentistry. Ulrich and Mendell ran for the big score for Turkeys. Tackling Med "2A", they found the going to tough and bowed 12-0.
